Slovenian Impressionism

A new guide for cultural tourism

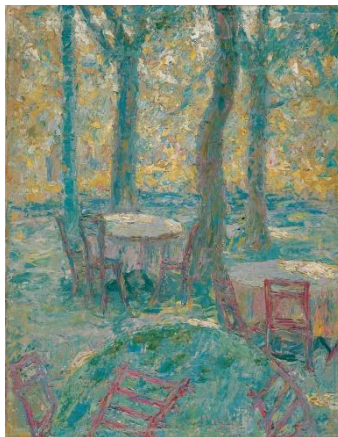

Impressionism developed in Slovenia, generating a school of significant reputation and increasingly better known. The talent and fame of Slovenian artists such as Ivan GROHAR, Rihard JAKOPIČ, Matej STERNEN and Matija JAMA have now gone far beyond the borders of this small European state.

In 2013, the exhibition "The Slovenian Impressionists and their times" presented at the Petit Palais in Paris made a strong contribution to discovering and highlighting these artists; Monique LUCENET, in her latest book entitled "The Routes of Impressionisms in Europe" - 2022 Council of Europe Literary Prize - devotes 4 pages to the Slovenian Impressionists...

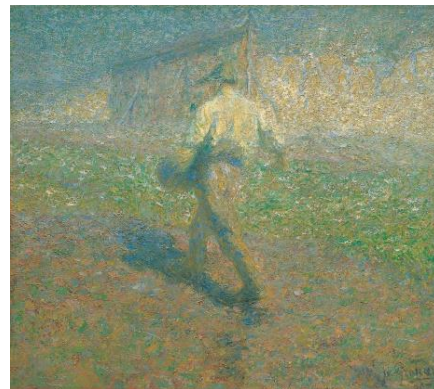

The new guide published in English by the National Gallery of Slovenia in Ljubljana, in partnership with Impressionisms Routes, invites the visitor to explore the main cultural sites of the country where the painters worked, while recalling the biographies of the most representative artists of the Slovenian Impressionism. The preface by Tanja OREL STURM, former plenipotentiary minister of Slovenia in Paris, situates the project of this guide within the prestigious impressionist route which crosses the country, Barbara JAKI, Director of the National Gallery and Michel MOHOR, author of the texts, supervised this perfectly successful and documented guide.

The Impressionisms Routes network is proud to promote this guide and welcomes the exemplary cooperation established over many years with the National Gallery of Slovenia
